YOUR PRIVACY: AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE TO OUR CUSTOMERS

As an ICANN accredited domain name registrar, register.com is required to create and maintain a publicly available record for each domain name registered through its service. This "WHOIS" record contains all of the contact information (not including credit card information) that you listed when you first registered your domain name(s).

ICANN also requires register.com to make your information available to third parties who enter into a bulk WHOIS "data access" agreement with register.com. Register.com, however, is not required to include your information in the bulk WHOIS data file if you "opt-out" of having this information included. As such, register.com is preparing a bulk WHOIS data file for distribution that contains only the information of individuals who choose to be included.

In an effort to protect the privacy of your personal data, register.com recommends that you choose not to include your WHOIS information in the bulk WHOIS data file. If register.com does not receive a response from you in regard to this issue, we will automatically exclude your contact information from the WHOIS data file it makes available to third parties.

Please choose only one (1) of the following:

- I choose not to include my personal data in the bulk WHOIS data file that will be licensed by register.com to third parties, but I would like to continue receiving register.com-sponsored communications.*
- I choose to include my personal data in the bulk WHOIS data file that will be licensed to third parties. [Please note that, in accordance with ICANN regulations, you must select this option if your domain name is registered to an organization or any other business entity.]

Please note that if you choose to exclude your personal data from the bulk WHOIS data file, your personal data will nevertheless continue to appear in register.com's WHOIS database, which is publicly accessible via register.com's web site.

If you have further questions about register.com's privacy policy or WHOIS database, please submit a ticket to a register.com Customer Support Representative by clicking here, or call (800) 899-9724.
